

10 334 Heard Street
The H.B. Swearingin House, featuring Classic Box style, was built in 1910.

14 356 Heard Street
This Bungalow style home of wood construction was built in 1900 and features a wrap-around porch.

11 Elbert County Public Library
Also known as the "War Woman Library,"

15 357 Heard Street
This Neoclassical style home was built by local civic and business leader Martin Luther Heard in 1909.

12 348 Heard Street
The William J. Clark House, featuring Greek Revival style, was built in 1856.

13 356 Heard Street
This Bungalow style home of stone construction was built in 1920.

16 369 Heard Street
Atlanta physician Dr. A.S. Hawes had this Classic Box style home built in 1905. After moving to Elberton, Hawes became a successful businessman.

ELBERTON HISTORIC HOMES DISTRICT

The streets of Downtown Elberton are lined with a picturesque and historic breadth of special homes, representing several eras of construction and styles of architecture.

Dating back as far as the 1850's, Elberton's historic homes serve as reminders of the city's role in shaping Georgia history. They represent the legacies of several key figures in Elberton's past, individuals and families whose impact was felt not only by locals, but by people throughout the state.

Many of these homes have been saved from commercial development and restored by their owners, recapturing their historic charm while providing a place to live for the new leaders of Elberton.

For more information, contact the Elberton Historical Society at (706) 213-3000.

ELBERT COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Based in Elberton, our Chamber of Commerce is a volunteer organization of the business and professional community, a non-profit corporation that unites hundreds of businesses and professional firms, and a central agency who helps improve business and the business environment and help build a better community.

To learn more, visit our offices at 148 College Ave., call us at (706) 283-5651, or visit our website, www.elbertchamber.com.

WALKING OR DRIVING TOUR OF
ELBERTON, GEORGIA
HISTORIC HOMES

HEARD STREET

HISTORIC HOMES DISTRICT OF
ELBERTON, GEORGIA

PUBLISHED BY THE CITY OF ELBERTON, IN COOPERATION WITH THE ELBERT COUNTY
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND THE ELBERTON HISTORICAL SOCIETY

1 First Baptist Church
The original chapel, featuring Richardson Romanesque architecture, was built in 1897.

4 231 Heard Street
This Neoclassical style home was built by businessman and humanitarian Joe Cohen in 1909. Today, it houses Hick's Funeral Home.

6 302 Heard Street
This Classic Box architecture home was built in 1900. It is currently undergoing minor renovations.

8 313 Heard Street
The Z.W. Copeland House, built in 1900, is among the oldest local examples of the Bungalow. It now houses the law offices of Phelps & Campbell.

2 Elberton Post Office
This structure of Neoclassical style was built in 1914 and expanded in 1949 and 1956. It has served as Elberton's post office for nearly 90 years.

5 239 Heard Street
This exquisite example of Queen Anne architecture was built by prominent merchant W.C. Smith in 1890. It is currently undergoing renovation.

7 305 Heard Street
The Loehr-Jolley House was built around 1858-1859. It's first inhabitants, the Loehr's, are responsible for introducing Christmas trees to Georgia.

9 326 Heard Street
The William Tustin Van Duzer House is among Elberton's oldest, built in the mid-1800's. It features Greek Revival architecture.

3 217 Heard Street
Known today as Rainbow Manor and housing a bed and breakfast, this example of Neoclassical architecture was built in 1882.

MAP OF HEARD STREET HISTORIC HOME TOUR

